EDITORIAL GREETINGS

It's finally here. Our team had worked hard for this year's first publication of Jurnal Ekonomi dan Bisnis Islam (JEBIS). Thank you for the dedication given by all the team and reviewers. Also, we would like to thank the contribution of all authors by submitting their brilliant ideas and writings to JEBIS. All hard work paid off with the publication of JEBIS Volume 8 Edition 1, January-June 2022, on time.

In this edition, JEBIS offers you a total of nine articles related to Islamic Economics studies. Empirical studies had been done for this edition, especially on the topics of Islamic accounting, Islamic finance and capital market, Islamic home financing, and Islamic business and halal. Each topic discusses the trend, themes, and social structure of Islamic accounting; behavioral intention of Islamic peer-to-peer lending services users; the performance of Islamic stock market pre-COVID-19; the sensitivity of stock return in Asia; short-run and long-run relationship of Islamic home financing in Malaysia; sectoral financing diversifications and Islamic banks' profitability; halal cosmetics; halal fashion product; the role of green sukuk for realizing SGD in 2030; and public intention in buying cash waqf linked sukuk.

The articles that have been published are expected to help various parties in developing Islamic economics. Therefore, the contribution of academics, practitioners, and researchers is needed to achieve this. Thank you in advance. See you in the next edition. Stay healthy and safe!
