EDITORIAL GREETINGS

It is finally here. Our team worked hard for this year's Jurnal Ekonomi dan Bisnis Islam (JEBIS) publication. High appreciate the dedication given by all the team and reviewers. Also, we would like to thank the contribution of all authors by submitting their brilliant ideas and writings to JEBIS. All hard work paid off with the publication of JEBIS Volume 9 Edition 2, July - December 2023, on time.

In this edition, JEBIS offers eleven Islamic Economics and Finance articles. Empirical studies have been done for this edition in several certain areas. Six articles highlight the topics of Islamic Banking and Finance, which emphasize different focuses, such as Islamic fintech, Islamic banking work ethics, Islamic financing, and Islamic bank performance. Two other papers focus on Islamic business and halal, describing the factors that influence the development of halal tourism sectors. The other two articles point out the Islamic Economics theme to examine the macroeconomic factors that cause Islamic financing rates and to explore the macroeconomic variable that influences foreign exchange reserves in OIC countries. Lastly, one paper explores the area of Islamic social finance, cash waqf link sukuk, that is implemented in health sectors.

The articles that have been published are expected to help various parties in developing Islamic economics and finance. Therefore, the contribution of academics, practitioners, and researchers is needed to achieve this. Thank you in advance. See you in the next edition. Stay healthy and safe!
